January-June 1966

No. 1

FOREWORD:
Volume XXXIII. Howard B. Burchell .......................................................... 1

EDITORIALS:
Herrman Blumgart: An Appreciation. Harry Goldblatt ......................... 4
Venous Return. Howard B. Burchell .............................................................. 6
Does a Metabolic Barrier to Circulating Cholesterol Protect the Arterial Wall? D. B. Zilversmit and H. A. I. Newman ................................. 7

ORIGINAL ARTICLES:
Influence of Respiration on Venous Return in Pulmonary Emphysema. Fred K. Nakhjavan, Wilfred H. Palmer, and Maurice McGregor .......... 8
Hemodynamic Effects of Aminophylline in Cor Pulmonale. John O. Parker, Kumar Kelkar, and Roxroy O. West .................................................. 17
Valve Replacement for Tricuspid Stenosis or Insufficiency Associated with Mitral Valvular Disease. C. Walton Lillehei, Paul G. Gannon, Morris J. Levy, Richard L. Varco, and Yang Wang .................................................. 34
Norepinephrine Stores and Contractile Force of Papillary Muscle from the Failing Human Heart. Charles A. Chidsey, Edmund H. Sonnenblick, Andrew G. Morrow, and Eugene Braunwald .......................................................... 43
Hemodynamic Changes Associated with Injection of Angiocardiographic Contrast Medium in Assessment of Valvular Lesions. Shahbudin H. Rahimtoola, John P. Duffy, and H. J. C. Swan ........................................................................ 52
Cirrhosis of Liver Simulating Congenital Cyanotic Heart Disease. R. C. Hansoti and N. J. Shah ................................................................. 71
Abnormalities of Renal Function and Circulatory Reflexes in Primary Aldosteronism. Edward G. Biglieri and Malcolm B. McIlroy .................................................. 78
Essential Hypertension: A Twenty-Year Follow-Up Study. Donald J. Breslin, Ray W. Gifford, Jr., and John F. Fairbairn II .................................................. 87
Etiologic Considerations in Peripheral Vascular Diseases of the Lower Extremity with Special Reference to Diabetes Mellitus. Herman T. Blumenthal, Aline W. Berns, Sidney Goldenberg, and Paul W. Lowenstein ................................................................. 98

CONTENTS OF VOLUME XXXIII

The Effect of Exercise on Postural Changes in the Electrocardiogram. Samuel Bellet and Laurian Roman ................................................................. 117

Elective Countershock in Unanesthetized Patients with Use of an Esophageal Electrode. E. M. McNally, E. C. Meyer, and R. Langendof ......................................................... 124

Perforation during Indwelling Catheter Pacing. David A. Nathan, Sol Center, Raul E. Pina, Aaron Medow, and Walter Keller, Jr ............................................. 128

Pre-Excitation as a Cause of Appearance and Increased Intensity of Systolic Murmurs. John M. Bergland, Warren R. Rucker, John T. Reeves, and Borys Surawicz .................................................. 131

Lymphatics of the Heart. Robert A. Johnson and Thomas M. Blake .................................................. 137

Digital Casts for the Study of Clubbing of the Fingers. Robert B. Mel-lins and Alfred P. Fishman .................................................. 143

SPECIAL ARTICLE:
The Main Functions of the Pulmonary Circulation. Julius H. Comroe, Jr. .......................... 146

BOOK REVIEWS .......... 159

EDITORIALS:
The Preterminal Arterioles in the Pulmonary Circulation of High-Altitude Natives. Sixto Recavarren .................................................. 177

Some Hemodynamic Problems in Transposition of the Great Vessels. Howard B. Burchell .................................................. 181

ORIGINAL ARTICLES:
Adaptation to Exercise in Angina Pectoris: The Electrocardiogram during Treadmill Walking and Coronary Angiographic Findings. Rex N. MacAlpin and Albert A. Kattus .................................................. 183

Infarction Patterns in Endocardial Fibroelastosis. John P. Lintermans, Edward L. Kaplan, Beverly C. Morgan, David Baum, and Warren G. Guntheroth .................................................. 202

Bacterial Endocarditis Following Aortic Valve Replacement: Clinical and Pathologic Correlations. Lawrence H. Cohn, William C. Roberts, S. David Rockoff, and Andrew G. Morrow .................................................. 209

Evaluation of the Severity of Mitral Stenosis and Regurgitation. Albert J. Libanoff and Simon Rodbard .................................................. 218

Intercoronary Anastomoses in Congenital Heart Disease. Colin M. Bloor, John F. Keefe, and Marie J. Browne .................................................. 227

CONTENTS OF VOLUME XXXIII

Transposition of the Great Vessels: Pathophysiologic Considerations Based upon a Study of the Lungs. Charlotte Ferencz ........................................ 232

Percutaneous Suprasternal Puncture (Radner Technique) of the Pulmonary Artery in Transposition of the Great Vessels. Shahbudin H. Rahimtoola, Patrick A. Ongley, and H. J. C. Swan ........................................ 242

Pulmonary Pressure, Cardiac Output and Arterial Oxygen Saturation during Exercise at High Altitude and at Sea Level. Natalio Banchero, Francisco Sime, Dante Peñaloza, Julio Cruz, Raúl Gamboa, and Emilio Marticorena ........................................ 249

The Assessment of Operative Results in Congenital Heart Disease by Intraoperative Indicator-Dilution Curves. Andrew G. Morrow, H. Newland Oldham, George M. Callard, and Eugene Braunwald ........................................ 263

Plasma Cephalins of Patients with Acute Myocardial Infarction. Martin M. Nothman and Samuel Proger ........................................ 287

Fistula from Circumflex Coronary Artery to Superior Vena Cava. Goffredo G. Gensini, Adoracion Palacio, and Carlo Buonanno ........................................ 297

Congenital Anomalies Involving the Coronary Sinus. Emil Mantini, Claude M. Grondin, C. Walton Lillehei, and Jesse E. Edwards ........................................ 317
